

BY AUTHORITY.

Tenders for Purchase of Hawaiian Government Bonds.

Notice is hereby given that under authority of Chapter 38, Session Laws of 1888, "An Act to give greater security to Depositors in the Hawaiian Postal Savings Bank," the Postmaster-General offers for sale $50,000 of Coupon Bonds of the Hawaiian Government, such bonds to be issued in the denomination of One Thousand Dollars each, redeemable in not less than five years nor more than twenty years, with interest at six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, principal and interest payable in U. S. gold coin, the bonds to express on their face that they are issued as security for the Postal Savings Bank Deposits.

Tenders for the purchase of the whole or any part of said bonds will be received at the office of the Registrar of Public Accounts, Finance Department, up to 12 o'clock on FRIDAY, the 1st day of July, 1892.

The Postmaster-General does not bind himself to accept any tender, or the whole of any tender.

WALTER HILL,
Postmaster-General.

Other matter is held in reserve in order to get the report of the Legislature up to noon or as close thereto as possible.

A correspondent criticises the American Minister's address on Memorial Day. It does in the passage quoted appear to be an extraordinary deliverance by the diplomatic representative of a friendly nation. Certainly no foreign representative at the capital of any first-rate Power would make such a middle-some reference to the internal affairs of the Government to which he was accredited without getting his passport in short order.

LAWN TENNIS PRIZE.

The silver prize given by the Honolulu Tennis Club and won by Miss Molly Atkinson on the Wodehouse court in an exhibition in the window of Mr. H. F. Wichmann's jewelry store. It was designed and executed by Mr. Wichmann and is in the shape of a buckle for a belt or sash. On the left corner is a tennis ball partly hiding a racket; and on the ball are the initials H. T. C. and along the handle of the racket, May 26, 1892. On the right corner are tennis balls tapering to a blunt point and on the largest one, Molly Atkinson. Across the intervening space is a netting of silver. The prize as a whole is not only a pretty ornament but a convenient one also.

A traveling man who chanced to be in the store of E. V. Wood, at McKees Rocks, Pa., says while he was waiting to see Mr. Wood, a little girl came in with an empty bottle labeled Chamberlain's Pain Balm and said: "Mamma wants another bottle of that medicine; she says it is the best medicine for rheumatism she ever used." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. THE TREASON CASES.

Preliminary Hearing Before Justice Dole.

TUESDAY, May 31.

GEO. NAWAOKA, resumed.—(Gives names of a number present at a meeting of the Hawaiian Patriotic League on the 14th April); recruiting members was done at that meeting; some 20 were taken in that night; object of meeting was explained by Wilcox, some recruits saying they didn't know objects; he said it was a secret organization to get equal rights, which at present they were not getting, with Mr. Wilson at the head; there was only one way of getting equal rights, that was by bayonets; he advised them to prepare themselves, and after they were well provided with arms to ask the Queen for their wishes, and if she did not comply she was to be set aside.

Mr. Hartwell objects to Mr. Rosa, counsel assisting prosecution, making suggestions to witness. It was presumed they had been making searching examinations of witnesses outside, and suggestions here as to answers were improper.

Mr. Creighton replied that the only objection could be as to the propriety of a question in itself. When the authorities spent days and weeks in examining witnesses they were only doing their duty.

The Court considered the questions proper in the line of direct examination, but in deference to the objecting counsel asked that the question should be put differently.

Witness—The Queen was to be set aside by force (ikaika); no one else took part in discussion; it was only an explanation by Mr. Wilcox; other defendants here heard what was said; the recruits consented after explanation, and oath was administered by Col. Ashford, interpreted by Mr. Wilcox, with hands on the Bible; it was customary for old members to renew the oath every night; recruits assented by "yes" before the oath was administered; Ashford also placed his hand on the Bible; I did so too; those who couldn't reach the Bible held up their hands; the oath was similar to what I gave yesterday; it was given from memory, not read, in clauses; some repeated it in English, others in Hawaiian; recruits were sworn in at general meeting; there was an executive meeting afterward; at that meeting it was decided to divide the men into squads of 10 men each so as to ensure success; the lieutenants were to take seats in the executive council; where there were 20 men a captain was to be appointed; the purpose was to divide up the meeting so as not to create suspicion; Ashford said if we were to be surprised it was only to be a meeting of the Liberal party; it was to avoid a general meeting, as the number was increasing all the time; executive discussed possibility of so dividing the League into squads; organization was divided up, but no boundaries were given; all I have named before as in executive council are lieutenants; Alex. Smith didn't attend executive meeting; don't remember anything said as to what was to be done after the Queen was set aside; there was something about a substitute for the Queen, but no one was named as such; it was said another one was to be placed in her stead; the doors were closed, there were two sentries—Kapoi and Jim Crow; my occupation is a police officer, since April 14, 1891, before that was a Customs clerk; all our meetings were conducted in secrecy with sentries outside; might have attended other meetings than those I have mentioned but do not recollect; Ashford presided at the meeting of the 14th.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hartwell—Was not a policeman before April, 1891; was a clerk at the Custom House a number of years, was discharged after the 1887 racket, don't remember how long after, think it was the next year; don't know reason for my discharge, nothing was said to me about reason; there was something said about others who were discharged; others discharged were Geo. Markham, Geo. Miles, Arch. Gillilan and Richd. Mossman; between discharge and appointment as policeman I planted taro; was asked to go on regular police but declined, then was asked to go on as special police; my duties were to keep the peace.

Q.—That is what we are all trying to do. What particular duties had you to perform?

Mr. Creighton objects.

The Court observes that there are matters in the administration of the police which are privileged. After further argument the question is allowed in a general sense.

Q.—What was the general nature of your duties?

A.—To trace up the evildoers; never went on regular beat; did not assemble at station with other policemen; might have known some of them as policemen; first meeting of League I attended was on 10th April.

Q.—Had you a conversation with the Marshal before going there?

Mr. Creighton objects.

The Court allows the question.

A.—No, sir; had conversation with someone else; sometimes meeting closed after 9, sometimes about 10, sometimes later; can't say what latest hour was; never was any as late as 12, possibly as late as 11, can't say; think I was seen taking notes on the tablets at meetings, can't point out anybody as one who saw me; saw Col. Ashford taking notes at meetings, saw no one else doing so; most of times went straight from meetings to my house on Nuanu street; when I didn't I would be with some of the members sitting down; sometimes I reported to the Marshal in the morning and sometimes in the evening, always at his office; may have been some persons present at these times.

Q.—Will you say distinctly whether all the notes I now hand you are in your own handwriting? Be sure, look it over carefully.

A.—The body of the statement is mine; there are a few items not mine (counsel finds that only headings are excepted by witness); quite a number occupy house with me (gives names of several co-tenants); wrote notes in my own room; while writing them no person else was present; don't know of anybody being aware I was making the notes; had schooling last at Oahu College, before that at Fort-street, Royal, old man Gulick's, and several others; (witness states in Hawaiian what he testified Wilcox said in English at first meeting, also that about force of arms at a later meeting); during time I was attending these meetings I didn't communicate their proceedings to anybody but the Marshal; I did not go to the meeting of the league at Kahi on one occasion; went to no meeting of the League there on the 7th of May; heard Wilcox say the Hawaiians and Patriotic League wanted a new Constitution, but not at a meeting on May 7; was not present at a meeting when it was proposed to seize Marshal C. B. Wilson.

Mr. Creighton objected that counsel could not cross-examine from memoranda of witness which the Court had ruled out, and against which counsel for the defense had solemnly protested.

The Court asks if this is cross-examination and, after argument, informs counsel that authorities before it are to the effect that, when counsel on cross-examination asks questions on matters not brought out in direct examination, he makes the evidence his own and is bound by it.

The Court takes recess from 11:53 to 1:30.
